LAW AND MORALITY.

Speaker Longworth said recently that the personnel of our criticized Congress compares favorably with the average intelligence and character in the country at large. Though this may be quite true, there are reported indications of growing discontent with government such as we now have. In a recent address President Butler of Columbia University pointed to signs that parliamentary or representative government is not functioning well and is falling into disfavor. Noting that "this has long been a common remark," and complaining of a latter-day "theory of government as a universal mediator and dispenser," the New York Times contends that the people have fallen into the habit of asking or expecting too much of government, and says further:

In its original conception, government still does fairly well. It protects life and property. It keeps order. It prevents one citizen or group of citizens from abusing liberty for the purpose of interfering with or oppressing other citizens. It is only when government passes beyond these elementary yet indispensable duties, and undertakes to enter the whole complex field of modern civilization in order to place restrictions here, to enforce regulations there, and to make of itself a sort of earthly Providence to watch over the needs and desires of all the people, that it seems to break down.

In this connection it is notable that President Angell of Yale University, in his recent baccalaureate address, discussed modern movements which "threaten to cut deep into the integrity of our American ideals and traditions" and deplored the seeming inability of our government or our people in these times to distinguish between the fields appropriate to legislation and those still under the jurisdiction of morals, with the result of demoralizing attacks on the binding forces of law. "Thanks to unpopular legislation," he said, "we are witnessing in our own country an attack upon the binding forces of law which constitutes the most insidious menace to the stability of our institutions that has arisen since the Civil War."

A prime cause of the criticism, discontent and disturbance is the rise of a seemingly widespread demand that the government take over a part of the field of the church and legislate morality into the people. Curiously enough, this new movement which, as President Angell notes, fails to distinguish between the fields appropriate to legislation and those still under the jurisdiction of morals, has been forwarded not merely by those who repudiate Christianity but by representatives of the church themselves, who thus appear indirectly to confess waning confidence in the church's power of moral healing. The results of such inappropriate intermingling of the two fields inevitably include not only discontent with the legislation thus produced and consequent disrespect for law in general but disrespect for the church as well.

DEMAND FOR ICE.

A prominent cold storage expert, in discussing the subject of refrigeration in the home, says that the development of the small electric refrigerator, which was heralded as sealing the doom of the ice man, has simply forced better practices by ice companies, and stimulated the industry to adopt progressive methods.

He pointed out that when the electric light was developed, prophets said the day of gas was ended, but from that day to this, not only the use of gas but of electricity has increased tremendously. The same thing took place with electric cars and automobiles. In spite of 20,000,000 autos and motor buses in the country, the electric railways are hauling more people than ever before.

And so it will be with electric refrigeration. It will stimulate the use of ice, and there is no ground for assuming that it will destroy the well-managed and progressive ice plant. As a matter of fact, such plants are doing under a chain system management which can buy cheaper, deliver cheaper and render better service all around.

A study of the cost of living in 11 representative cities of the United States, under the auspices of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, U. S. Department of Labor, indicates that taxation has increased faster than any other element entering into the cost of living. On January 1st of this year, the cost of living in these cities was 78 per cent over the 1913 level, while the cost of government, as expressed in taxation, has risen 200 per cent. Federal taxation which was $6.92 per capita in 1913, has risen to $25.50, state taxation, from $3.18 to $8.50, and local taxation, from $12.63 to $35. From these figures it will be seen that the cost of Federal taxes is 3 1/2 times, and state and local taxes 2 1/2 times as great as in 1913.

That Body of Yours

DIGESTION'S POOR START.

I have spoken before about the flying start food gets towards digestion when the food is well cooked, served attractively, and so forth. This is because the brain centers enter into it, and the digestive juices are stimulated to increased action. However, I've been thinking about the poor start we give digestion when we do not get our food properly handled at the beginning, that is in the mouth.

Although we do not need our sharp front teeth for tearing food apart as did our ancestors, when they ate raw foods, nevertheless the grinding teeth behind should be used on the food, not only to break it up into small particles, but to enable the saliva of the mouth to get well mixed in with the food.

The saliva softens and moistens the food, which is of course important, but it has an alkaline reaction which turns starchy foods into a sugar right in the mouth.

Food insufficiently chewed reaches the stomach having undergone only a part of the chemical action of the saliva.

Thus the stomach has to take hold under this handicap, but goes ahead and does its best. It pours out its juices and it churns up the food, and then passes it along to small intestine, but it often hasn't completely overcome the lack of the action of the saliva. In the small intestine the bile and pancreatic juices keep busy, but they likewise have expected a complete job from the stomach and haven't received it, because the stomach didn't get a complete job from the mouth.

Similarly the large intestine is meant to be a sort of reservoir for the waste or unused matter from the food, finds itself with undigested foods, that might have been of use to the body, if the mouth had done its work properly at the beginning. Often also this undigested food can cause considerable distress when it reaches the large intestine.

What is my thought?

That many folks are bothered with pain in the large intestine, and still others in the stomach, and go to their physician to get treatment for the pain in that particular part of the intestinal canal.

Real chewing of the food would often prevent trouble all the way down.

Today's Story in New York History

Union of Colonies Proposed by Franklin at Congress in Albany, June 21, 1754.

When Sir Danvers Osborn, governor of New York, suicided, October 12, 1753, James DeLancey, lieutenant governor, and one of the best equipped men in the province for the position, succeeded him. He had been born in Albany and was the first governor to be born here.

The cloud of war was not only hanging over the country, but burst in storms of considerable violence upon certain parts of it. New York played an important part in the French and Indian War.

The Treaty of Aix-la-Chapelle, which put an end in 1748 to the general European war was a dead letter so far as the colonies were concerned, for French aggressions were more exasperating than ever. Traditional enmity between England and France only slumbered.

The French had discovered the magnificent country around the Great Lakes and in the Mississippi Valley. In 1753 the Governor of Canada sent 1200 soldiers to occupy the Ohio River Valley in Pennsylvania to the exclusion of the English.

The French built forts in Pennsylvania and Governor Dinwiddie of Virginia, sent young George Washington with remonstrance to the French commander at Fort Le Boeuf but he returned, after a perilous journey, with an unsatisfactory response to the message. Satisfied that the French in Canada were contemplating aggressive war upon the English colonies, the latter prepared to meet the blow.

There were indications that the Six Nations, influenced by the French emissaries were being alienated from the English.

The British government, acting upon the advice of the royal governors in America, sent a circular letter to all the colonial assemblies, proposing the holding of a convention at Albany, to be composed of committees from the several legislatures and representatives of the Six Nations.

This congress assembled in the court house at Albany on Wednesday, June 19, 1754; Governor DeLancey, of New York presided. There were twenty-three delegates; New York had four; New Hampshire four; Massachusetts four; Connecticut three; Rhode Island two; Maryland two; and Pennsylvania four, one of whom was Benjamin Franklin. DeLancey also represented Virginia. The chiefs of the Six Nations were there in great numbers, of whom "King Hendrick," of the Mohawk, was leader.

To the Indians DeLancey first spoke, and Hendrick responded in words of bitter reproach of the English for their neglect of preparations for danger. But the business with the Six Nations was closed amicably and satisfactorily by a treaty of friendship.

On Monday afternoon, June 24, a motion was made to consider the question whether a union of the colonies for mutual defense was not desirable.

The motion being put was carried unanimously. Franklin was made chairman of a committee to draft a plan, and on July 10 the plan he proposed was adopted, the Connecticut delegates alone dissenting.

This plan provided for a president-general, appointed by the crown, assisted by a grand council composed of forty-eight representatives, chosen by the several provincial assemblies, none of the colonies to have less than two or more than seven members.

The history of this plan is singular. The colonial assemblies refused their assent because it seemed too "aristocratic"—giving the governor, to be appointed by the king, too much power. The Board of Trade rejected it because it was too "democratic"—gave too much power to the people.

Though this initial effort toward political consolidation was not yet to be for many a year, and then only at the expense of British dominion, the idea of military combination was put into practical shape by the British ministry.

Sir William Johnson, who had never commanded troops, was put at the head of a force of 3400, who marched northward. At Lake George on September 8, 1755, occurred a battle which brought a baronetcy and a fortune to Johnson, deprived the officers who really won the victory of credit, led to the death of the celebrated Mohawk, Hendrick, and put to rout the French forces under the accomplished French general, Dieskau.

The main events of the French and Indian War were the defeat of General Braddock on the Monongahela, July 9, 1755; the capture of Fort Oswego by the French general, Montcalm, August 14, 1756; the surrender and massacre of Fort William Henry at Lake George, August 3, 1757; where Montcalm with 8,000 French and 2,500 Indians overcame the garrison of Colonel Moore of 3,000 men; the surrender of Fort Frontenac to Colonel John Bradstreet, August 27, 1758; the investment of Fort Duquesne by General John Forbes, November 25, 1758; and the surrender of Fort Niagara to the English, July 20, 1759.

Mrs. Jerome
Napoleon Bonaparte

MRS. BONAPARTE, prominent socially here and abroad, is the wife of the great-great-nephew of Emperor Napoleon. Mr. Bonaparte's great-great-grandfather was Jerome Bonaparte, king of Westphalia.

When asked why she likes Clicquot Club Pale Dry Ginger Ale, Mrs. Bonaparte said: "A flavor so subtle as that of Clicquot Club Pale Dry Ginger Ale is difficult to describe. It is delicate, elusive, charming, and appeals to me immensely. It has the freshness of Nature and I feel sure is purity itself. Truly, a rare drink that is good for one, yet delightful to the taste."

Two flavors to choose from

You can now get Clicquot Club Ginger Ale in two flavors. The new Pale Dry Clicquot is very delicate and subtle in taste. The Golden Clicquot is more gingery, a particularly invigorating drink—for a generation the most popular of all bottled beverages the nation over. Clicquot Club Ginger Ale, noted for its high quality, also gives more generous quantity and at a very reasonable price. The Clicquot Club Company, Millis, Massachusetts.

Recreation Club Wants Camp Site

Tracts of At Least Five Acres Desired
By National Recreation Club for Camping Purposes—What Site Is Required.

The National Recreation Club, a non-commercial organization with 88 camps in New England, desires to secure camp sites in New York for the use of the members of the club.

The ideal condition is a large farm, not over a mile from the state road, with the owner living on the property, where the member can drive into the yard and continue on to a camp site located in a grove, or a field with some shade and good drinking water near by. An opportunity for bathing and fishing is a great attraction.

The requirements are well drained land, firm enough to support a large automobile (2 tons) and sufficiently level to allow the car to be driven alongside of tents and large enough to accommodate 20 automobiles and camping parties at one time; at least 5 acres, not necessarily all in one field. Land owner to supply land, water, receptacles for refuse and two toilets. It is expected the farmer will sell farm produce.

The club member furnishes his own camping equipment and pays for the privilege of camping on the lot.

Members of the National Recreation Club are the better sort of campers who are admitted to the club only upon proper recommendation.

If your farm meets the above conditions, particularly if it has one of those wonderful views in which the state of New York abounds and a swimming hole or other natural attraction, send full details to National Recreation Club, care Motor Camp and Tourist Magazine, 1133 Broadway, New York City.

Building Storm Cellar

The weather bureau says that many plans for a storm cellar have been proposed, but all that is necessary is any sort of a room or hole under the surface of the earth convenient to get into. Naturally one would prefer to have a door to it. Close enough to keep out snakes and toads. It can have cement walls and floor, or these may be of stone, plank or just the earth. If that will stand, all these details, as also many others that some designers have suggested, are only unimportant details. One only wants a room of any kind under ground, in which, at worst, he probably will never need to stay more than five minutes in a lifetime. While in the "cellar" during the passage of a storm the door to the cellar should be left open.

Where Priests Labored

A bronze tablet now marks the spot where nearly 300 years ago Franciscan priests taught the word of God among warring Indians. It is near New Smyrna, Fla.

There the priests taught Indian boys and girls their catechism, baptized them, received their confessions, married them and officiated at the last rites for the dead. An old Spanish document found some time ago revealed a communication from the Franciscans to the king of Spain asking for certain implements. Does particularly were sought, "which," the letter read, "are the most essential for the many 'entradas' which have to be made and the erection of houses and temples in the Indian villages."

Good Company

To possess a small collection of well chosen volumes, lighting up a corner of your room, is to have beside you the wisest and best men in the world. The pleasure and profit of their company is your own. They are there to instruct you; to make you hopeful, trustful, thoughtful, better. Would you deny yourself this? Know well the volumes you can gather together. Help and instruct others to know and like what is best suited to their needs. Teach them how to approach a book. Nothing has greater influence or is more potent in young people than a love for good books.—Thomas Tappan, in "Chats With Music Students."

Levish Chinese Weddings

Chinese weddings take 11 days, and is the case of the very wealthy, cost in the neighborhood of $100,000. It is not uncommon for as many as 5,000 invitations to be issued, written a correspondent of the Detroit (Mich.) News-Tribune. The bridegroom pays for this lavish entertainment. The couple to be married never meet until the ceremonies begin, the match having been arranged by the parents. On each day there is a different ceremony performed and not until the eleventh day is the knot said to have been securely tied.

Mellon Man

John S. Fisher, backed by Mellon interests as candidate for Governor of Pennsylvania, was one of the centres of the Senate investigation into huge primary expenditures.

HOWE ABOUT—

By ED HOWE

(Copyright by The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Judges and juries are as liberal toward woman litigants as they are toward farmers who sue the railroads for damages. I know a husband who sued his wife for divorce, claiming she was ruining him with extravagant and unnecessary bills. These amounted to four hundred dollars a month. But the court promptly allowed her $500 temporary alimony, in addition to attorney's fees. The husband was about the maddest man ever seen around the courthouse. He had asked relief from a burden and his burden was increased a hundred dollars a month.

I know a persistent drunkard who quit drinking from becoming disgusted with himself. . . . Also a man who quit smoking for the same reason. The drunkard said quitting was easy; the smoker said it was a terrible task.

The great controversy is, after all, between the workers and the idlers, since it concerns money, social position, food, clothing; all the real things of life. It therefore becomes universal, and brings out all the devilishness there is in human nature.

And the idlers fight the workers with all the enthusiasm applied to a holy war. They are wrong, and must know it, but in their attempts to plunder the worthy, they use more grand terms than the workers use in defense. A majority of books are devoted to attacks on industry; an Englishman who has made a careful study of the subject says the real workers have almost no literature; everything in print is colored with the pot and brush of the loafers.

Every legitimate worker who wrangles in fair competition for the world's dollars probably carries two idlers on his back. Many of them are children, necessarily dependent; many are women who do not do their fair share; many others are able-bodied men who are only schemers.

All these watch and criticize the workers who have the pocketbook, and who, from necessity, must make their money go as far as possible. No idler is fair with thrift, care, sense.

Everything from which we suffer to day is a good idea overloaded. If an individual overloads himself, the penalty is personal; but if public men overload a good idea, we all pay a penalty.

Leaders complain that the general-ty of people have no sense. It is the business of the real leaders to teach the people better sense, by example. This they failed to do.

Harold Van Ethen attended choir practice at Leibhardt on Tuesday evening.

There have been a number of cases of measles in this locality for the past few weeks. All patients have either recovered or are recovering nicely.

There was frost again on Sunday morning, seen only by early risers. Rather an unusual occurrence around the first day of summer.

In spite of all the cold and disagreeable weather, there has been an abundance of flowers, both wild and cultivated. Just now the mountain laurel in all its beauty is decorating hills and roadsides. Wild strawberries are plentiful and there are indications of a good fruit yield.

J. Pery and two sons of Pataunkunk called on Ralph Smith and family on Sunday afternoon.

George Halwick is having his house remodelled. Eli Quick has charge of the carpenter work.

Card of Thanks.

I wish to express my sincere thanks and appreciation to the neighbors and friends who were so kind to me during the illness and death of my father. Also for the many flowers sent him.

Nutty Natural History

By HUGH HUTTON.

THE GREAT WHISKERED GWEX.

The gwex is a stupendous creature that sits all day on a mountain top in the great ranges of the Caucasus and lets the north wind blow through his whiskers, only stirring now and then to catch an oyster or two to make a slight meal and keep up his avoirdupois. Although the hunting of the gwex is an exciting sport, it is also dangerous, and many a party has set out from Tiflis never to return. As bullets rebound from his tough rubber-like hide, the only way to get him is to throw a stick of dynamite so it will billiard from his side to a nearby sharp rock and blow him off the mountain. Some unlucky hunters use too much English on the dynamite, and they suffer the fate intended for the gwex.

In manufacturing a small model of a gwex, a tennis ball is best for the body. The head is a paper-shell pecan, the feet are shell macaroni, and the tail is a popped popcorn. The nose is a popcorn and the horns are cloves. The insides of father's best cigarettes will make excellent whiskers, if fastened on with chewing gum.

MEMORIAL WINDOWS FOR PHOENICIA CHURCH

Phoenicia, June 24.—The Rev. Mr. Skidmore, pastor of the M. E. Church, has been instrumental in getting memorial windows for the church. The windows are very pretty and well harmonized in color combinations and paneling.

Those placed are the Simpson, Elvey, Yerry, Woodworth and League windows. The others to be placed are for the Aid, Breithaupt, Elting and Winter families. The Winter window will be a memorial to Dr. and Mrs. Winter and is placed by their son-in-law Mr. Zeek, and grandchildren.

Dr. Winter was the founder of the church and backed the $6,000 that made it possible to have a church in Phoenicia. An Aid Society was formed and Mrs. Winter served a long time as president. The Aid had but a few in membership but their heart was in the work and much was accomplished.

Mrs. Sarah Bouse is the only living member of the charter board. The first service held in the church was a funeral for a little child. The shavings were over the floor, the seats were not placed but the doctor said it must be fixed so that the funeral could be held in the church, as it could not be held in the home of the little one. So the shavings were swept up and the seats were placed around and the service was held. It is very fitting and just that a window be placed to their memory and the same was brought about through the efforts of Mrs. A. Perry Loomis. Adrian and Harriet Loomis spent Sunday in Stamford.

A large number of lodge men turned out for field day and a jolly time was had all around. A nice supper was served by the Baptist and M. E. Aid Societies. The parade afterward led by the drum, sounded like old times just before presidential elections.

The M. E. Sunday school Children's day exercises will be held Sunday evening, June 27.

Miss Lorna Van DeMark has returned from the city where she spent a couple of weeks.

M. J. Lelpold, wife and daughter of Poughkeepsie visited their aunt, Mrs. A. P. Loomis, Saturday. They all, including Harriet Loomis, took a trip to Hunter and back.

C. Mooney will go to Kaaterskill as operator June 27. Adrian Loomis will come to the station here at that time.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Elvey are getting all their business arrangements under way and Mr. Elvey is filling the hardware orders in prompt shape as they intend to leave quite early for the South.

Mrs. E. Tranker of Kingston spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Clancy.

Saturday evening, June 19, found the air quite frosty. It was a real fall night.

A breakfast nook is all right at times. It makes a quite convenient place for a solitaire game.

Don't buy tires in which reclaimed rubber is used. The U.S. Government's Bureau of Standards says that any given percentage of reclaimed rubber in a tire reduces the mileage of the tire by an even greater percentage.

Voman Leader For Wadsworth

Prohibition Has No Place in Constitution and Federal Regulation Arouses Defiance Against Government.

Mrs. Henry R. Caraway of Putnam county, former president of the Women's University Club of New York and active in civic and educational work, yesterday endorsed Senator Wadsworth's stand that the prohibition amendment has no place in the constitution. Mrs. Caraway's advocacy of Senator Wadsworth was the first break in the up-state "dry" ranks among women and showed that many of the prohibition women will support Senator Wadsworth for re-nomination and election.

"I agree with Senator Wadsworth's contention that the prohibition amendment has no place in the constitution, but I strongly advocate the evolution of the prohibition ideal through state laws. A federal prohibition act is unsound psychologically in that it arouses in its citizens a defiant restiveness against government control of personal liberties while what should be stimulated is a sense of responsibility in originating and upholding local laws of the citizens' own making.

Freedom of Thought at Stake.

"Since freedom of thought is a cardinal principle of American government, who questions Senator Wadsworth's right to recommend openly—and, incidentally, at the risk of some political prestige—a new national policy of liquor regulation which he believes to be a better and more direct method of insuring national sobriety than the present system of governmental compulsion. His opinion that the Quebec method is best adapted to cope with the situation here is evidently based on a careful comparative analysis. Many would prefer the Swedish or 'Brat' system by which all liquor is government owned and sold to families or individuals on a strictly rationed basis—usually four litres a month. This has brought about a great reduction in the serious national evil of intemperance prevalent in that country before the government assumed control. In ten years arrests for drunkenness have been reduced 49 per cent, while hospitals report a reduction of 61 per cent in cases of chronic alcoholism. Moreover, an annual revenue of over one hundred million crowns accrues to the Swedish government.

"Irrespective, however, of the merits of Canadian, Swedish or liquor regulatory systems, any intelligent recommendation which offers a possible solution of the present chaos of illicit liquor transactions, impossible conditions of enforcement, and the bitter warfare of conflicting factions is entitled to consideration and respect.

Tammany Attack Unfair.

"Tammany leaders and all members of the Democratic party who are both fair minded and politically wise have condemned the recent 'round robin' letter, alleged to have been signed by a majority of the Democratic members in the New York state delegates in congress. It was obviously inspired by a desperate fear lest the unquestioned leadership of Senator Wadsworth might wrest from the Democratic party the so-called 'wet' following and that 'Al Smith Republicans' would return to the fold sheltered by 'Wadsworth Democrats.' The patent unfairness of the attack on Mr. Wadsworth brings out in bold relief the mainly and straightforward declaration against which it was launched. To voters concerned with Mr. Wadsworth as New York's national representative two points have become increasingly clear: first, that respect for law and order plus the responsibilities incident to his position have determined his personal conduct with respect to the 18th Amendment, and second, that his original conviction, as an American statesman, that this amendment was both premature and fundamentally unsound, has deepened with the experience of each successive year.

Strikes Keynote of Patriotism.

"Many Republicans—and Democrats as well—subscribe wholeheartedly to law enforcement although they are not, never were and never will be prohibitionists. To these in particular—and to all whose minds are not muscle-bound—Senator Wadsworth has with honest conviction stated what he believes to be the best way out of the present muddle—the next step toward the regaining of national self-respect through reasonable and practical national control of liquor resources and the consequent return, under intelligent leadership, to voluntary personal restraint. This strikes the keynote of a high patriotism."

NEW PALTZ.

New Paltz, June 24.—The local fire department will play twilight ball games on Normal School grounds every Thursday.

Thursday evening, June 10, the fire department played the New Paltz Normal and won by the score of 10 to 9.

Plans are in making for the celebration at New Paltz on July 5.

The American Legion, the fire department and citizens generally can be counted on to make New Paltz the mecca for visitors from far and near.

The Highland Hose Company and Legionnaires have accepted an invitation to be present. The Young American Hose Company of Poughkeepsie will furnish the music for the parade and the dedication exercises in the park. It is planned to have a parade and inspection by local organizations and visitors preceding the dedication of the German hostler war trophy. The Rev. Frank R. Wilson of Cornwall, former chaplain of the fire department and the American Legion, will make the address to the soldiers. Mayor R. H. Matteson will accept the trophy on behalf of the village. New Paltz and Highland will clash in a game of ball on the Normal diamond. In the evening there will be a block party on Tammany Square for which Booth's orchestra of Walden will furnish music. A big display of fireworks will be sent up as a fitting climax of the day's doings. The German war trophy will be mounted on a concrete base in the northern section of the Memorial Park. The sun has been painted with a compass design. The concrete foundation will be laid on bed rock and will extend three feet above the level of the ground. It will be eight feet wide and fourteen feet long. The sides of the base will be decorated with two gold stars, one and a half inches in diameter, and the date of the dedication. The cannon will be pointed in a generally westerly direction toward the Shawangunk Mountains.

Mrs. Fred Coulter of New Paltz while in Poughkeepsie Friday afternoon, reported in police headquarters that her coat pocket had been picked of a purse containing slightly more than seven dollars in currency while standing in front of the Up-to-Date store on Main street shortly after the entry of Mrs. Coulter's complaint, another woman reported that a pocketbook containing six cents had been found in her pocket while she was standing on the square.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe E. Haskin of Modena were visitors in town Monday evening.

All that's best in a cigarette

AFTER glorious exercise nothing is so refreshing as the fragrant smoke of a Camel. Wherever Camels go—to the seashore, to the mountains, to the office—they bring pleasure, full smoking enjoyment.

No other cigarette made ever gladdened the taste of so many millions, for Camels are made of the choicest tobaccos grown. Camels alone satisfy the taste for all that's best in a cigarette, for Camel blending can be found nowhere else at any price. Camels never tire the taste, never leave a cigarette after-taste.

R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, Winston-Salem, N. C.

Camel leadership over all other cigarettes shows that the smokers of America want smoking quality. Camel success is built up on goodness, by the world's largest tobacco organization. Each year the makers of Camels spend millions for quality, and not one cent for frills or fancy wrappings.

No two ways about it, Camels are the finest pleasure, the richest contentment that ever came from a cigarette. If you haven't yet found the utmost in cigarette goodness, answer the most popular smoke invitation ever sounded—

On Fashions

The High-Neck Bathing Suit Has as Many Sponsors as the Brightly-Colored One; a Parasol Is Another Protective Measure.

It sometimes happens that one has to look twice at a woman sitting or strolling on the sands, to tell whether she is dressed for land or a dip in the sea. The high-neck bathing suit has many sponsors, and abbreviated skirts are peculiar to us all. Tunics are tunics, whether they are worn over trunks or skirts.

It is amazing how many materials take kindly to a salt dip and how really dressy some suits are. Fringe, pleats, even broadcords are in the swim. It all depends, of course, upon where one bathes whether halbrigan appeals or not, and whether one feels most at home in a skirt or swimming suit. In every instance there is a need for an outer covering, beach coats being not only gay, but even elaborate. A bath robe is sure to be in good taste on any beach and provides the mantle not only of charity but chic.

The High-Neck Bathing Suit Is Protective and Pretty. Fuchsia-Colored Silk Crepe Develops a High-Necked Bathing Frock Which Is Belted at the Sides and Exploits a Scaloped Hem.

Brilliant colorings in bathing suits are generally more approved just now than black, but one must always take his or her physical assets or liabilities into consideration in making selections. A choice of black satin, or just now of taffeta, is correct.

In the brilliant canvas on which beach scenes must now be painted, there is the danger, if danger it is, of over-conservation. Bold prints are unusually effective against a broad sweep of sea and sky. One's parasol should be as gay as possible, which, as any smart shop may attest, is very gay indeed.

How to make Strawberry Jam

keep the color and flavor of the fresh berries

Your jam will taste enough like fresh berries to use in strawberry shortcake if you make it this way, easy, short-bell way with Certo. Save the following recipe to use for your first batch of strawberry jam.

Cut in halves lengthwise with stainless knife about 2 quarts of small or medium-sized fully ripe berries. After halving, weigh out 2 lbs. berries, or measure 4½ level cups of berries, packing solidly into the cup until juice and fruit come to the top of the cup. Add 7 level cups (3 lbs.) sugar and mix well. Use hottest fire and stir constantly before and while boiling. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for 2 to 3 minutes. Remove from fire and stir in ½ cup Certo. Skim and stir repeatedly for just 5 minutes after taking from fire, to cool slightly. Pour quickly and cover hot jam at once with hot boiled paraffin.

The short boiling time, possible only with Certo, prevents the loss of delicate flavor and the darkening in color which used to occur during the old long boil. It also gives you a larger amount of jam, since you can use the large quantity of juice which used to be lost away.

Certo is a pure fruit product—the jelling substance of fruit, refined and bottled. A book of simple recipes comes with each bottle. Your grocery carrier Certo, or you can send 10c (for postage) and get a trial half-size bottle which will make from 6 to 10 glasses of jam or jelly, depending upon the recipe used. LADIES' TAILORS AND FURRIERS

STYLISTS SEND AIRY HATS TO FIND PLACE IN THE SUN

EXCEPT in sunny climes the story of millinery so far this season has been told in small, colorful and chic hats that belong to early spring. Flower trims on many of them herald a coming summer—like the songs of cheerfully promising robins—and we have listened to the songs and bought the flower-trimmed hats with equal pleasure and confidence. But now stylists have launched the real, summer hat and millinery windows are blossoming out with airy and wide-brimmed models that will cast a grateful shadow when the sun is high.

Many of these midsummer hats are of transparent braids—and many of them are flower-trimmed. They are in keeping with the sheer and dainty summer frocks that are finding universal favor, and they are enchantingly becoming—distinctly midsummer types with crowns somewhat higher than they have been and often revealing picturesque brim lines.

The group of five hats pictured here is representative of this class of headwear and leads off with a moderately wide-brimmed hat covered with georgette. Pastel colors and tan shades are especially well liked in this kind of millinery and they make perfect backgrounds for flowers in natural and pastel colors. The hair braid hat at the left, with high square crown, carries only one huge blossom, posed high and on the right side. A light straw braid provides the graceful hat at the right with brim edge finished with a deep facing of silk and trimming of applique flowers. At the left the perennial and winsome poke shape of transparent braid has a secondary brim and a soft collar of satin and is prettily finished with an applique floral motif at the front of the crown. A picturesque hat of soft straw finishes the group trimmed with ribbon and braid.

Between the small, early hat of ribbon, felt, straw or silk, and the large midsummer hat, there are hats of straw or silk, or more often, of combinations of these, that have narrow or medium brims and are suited to the needs of those who cannot wear very wide brims.

The Real Artist

All things considered, the most successful interior decorator is a good cook.

From London and fashion centers on the Continent, it is reported that the "neck rose" is the latest whim for evening wear. Its favored position is said to be just below the left ear, where it sometimes is fastened by means of an almost invisible neckband, although more often it is seen in connection with the scarf now reported so popular for evening dress.

The vogue for scarfs is said to have originated with an Eton-cropped girl who wore a vivid-colored silk scarf twisted tightly around her neck above a daintily plain, sleeveless, black satin dress, very low cut in the back.

In every report received from Paris, suits seem to be of great importance. Of course they are always worn by the smart Parisienne in springtime, but few would dispute that more and greater variety of them are being worn this year than for some time, so that they deserve a large paragraph in any article on what is being worn. There is the strictly tailored suit of plain, sober woolen, all one color, the hip-length jacket belted and slightly fitted, the skirt straight and usually with double inverted pleats at front.

Paris reports, in discussing what the chic Parisienne wears now, the height of the season, that stockiness is to be discarded color. There are quite a number of fashionably dressed women at the races wearing stockings that may be described as a tone lighter than cummerbund.

Lizard by itself and in combination with plain kid still seems a favorite in the shoes worn by smart women, while, on the other hand, there is also much plain black patent leather worn, especially with the dark tailored suits.

All smart New York restaurants enormous hats are replacing small ones. Milan is the straw universally sponsored, the trimming being flat and always simple.

Buttons are an important trimming for sports frocks and the simpler types for street wear.

Monogram pins, slides and ornaments have developed into an important fad. These are usually set in silver and made of brilliant and are worn on the shoulder, as a brooch at the throat or in one's hat.

Polka dotted silks are beginning to be worn and shops report a brisk demand for polka dot designs.

THREE WORKING A WEEK WILL EARN MORE MONEY

Planning meals that can be cooked for several days at one time is one way of easing up the summer housework. When meals are planned a week ahead of time and the housewife takes advantage of the foods that need no cooking, the college of home economics here says that the stove may be needed only three days out of the seven.

Meat may be cooked for two and even three meals at one time. Served hot for dinner the first day, it may be prepared in cold slices for dinner the second day and possibly again in a salad, creamed, or in a quickly-made stew or casserole dish. Vegetables, too, may be cooked for several meals at one time. Potatoes boiled in their skins may be used hot, then peeled and diced for salad or may be creamed on short notice to accompany cold meat.

Salads Have Place. Vegetable salads are a change from hot vegetables when days are warm. Almost any cooked vegetable may be used. Beets, cauliflower, beans, peas or carrots are good by themselves or in combination with other vegetables with lettuce and any desired dressing. Carrots may be used raw, and diced with raisins they make a favorite dish. Cabbage, lettuce, endive, and romaine are only a few of the greens usable in salads and radishes, celery and onions are some of the vegetables which need no cooking.

Fruits may be served for any meal with practically no preparation except cleaning. Blueberries left over from one meal may be reheated and used with crushed fruit and whipped cream as a shortcake for another meal. Cut-up fruit, fruit gelatin, whips, and sponges are other desserts which require no stove. Fruit juices kept on hand provide cool drinks with little effort.

The prepared cereals and other ready-to-eat foods should be given consideration by the housewife if she would save herself work and keep her kitchen comfortable during summer months. Cool meals with one hot dish, such as a soup, which is quickly heated easily, solve the problem of hot weather cooking.

DISHWASHING RESULTS IN MILES OF WALKING

Treating the family china gently is something to be commended but handling each cup or plate by itself is unnecessary and calls for miles of walking that might better be done out of doors. By following one woman with a piece of string while she washed only six plates, cups, and saucers in her usual way and measuring the length of this string it was found that in going through the same process three times a day for twelve months she would actually walk twenty-seven miles. And all the plates, glasses, silver, and pots and pans to wash besides! This woman wanted to be very careful of the dishes so she carried only one plate or one cup and saucer in each hand as she moved from table to sink and from sink to cupboard. When she realized how far she was walking she tried stacking the dishes at the table and by carrying them out in piles she cut down her dishwashing hike to sixteen miles. Then with a service wagon or tray on wheels she reduced it to nine miles. Perhaps she needed the exercise of the longest method, but for an eighteen mile walk most people prefer the woods to the kitchen.

Go Beyond Reach

A volcano is not only a vast steam boiler, likely at any moment to blow itself up; it is also a vast gas producer, so dense capable of supplying gas enough for many cities if we could collect and purify the invisible gases which are given off.

In washing, Miss Mabeline Brown, "Server" tells that make her wash down, At noon she serves, in different style. Blue Ribbon cream that makes dish wash.

Get Rid of These Ugly Spots Safely and Surely and Have a Beautiful Complexion With OTHINE find it safer to wash clothes—this easy way

USED to have to rub and scrub cuffs, collars, hems, etc., to get them clean and white. No wonder they became frayed and threadbare so quickly. But no more hard rubbing for me now. I just soak my week's wash in Rinso—then rinse—and my washing is done—safely. Clothes get whiter and brighter than ever before. No washboard rubbing—even the most soiled spots become snowy with rub or two between the fingers. Rinso makes the water wonderfully soft and sudsy. It saves my hands, too. They never get red and washed raw now. Ask your grocer for

"Spreaders" Fail To Help Sprays

Do Not Increase Killing Efficiency When Applied to Orchard Pests, Says State Entomologist at Geneva Experiment Station.

Geneva, N. Y., June 24.—The addition of such materials as glue, calcium caseinate, and soaps of various sorts to regulation sprays used in combating insect pests and diseases in New York orchards in order to "spread" the sprays to better advantage do not increase the efficiency of the spray mixtures, says the entomologist at the State Experiment Station here where tests with several of these so-called "spreaders" have been made during the past few seasons. A brief account of the station tests with some of these materials is incorporated in the report of the director for the past year, and may be had free of charge upon request.

Casein Sometimes Useful.

"The experiments with 'spreaders,' such as glue, calcium caseinate, and various soaps have been continued, and as heretofore, no appreciable improvement in the killing efficiency of the common spray mixtures could be attributed to the use of such materials," says the report. "Theoretical considerations, however, suggest that calcium caseinate may be added to spray mixtures containing lime-sulfur and lead arsenate as a means of avoiding certain undesirable chemical reactions which may take place in mixtures of this sort."

"Casein also proves a very useful purpose in the preparation of such sprays as sulfur suspensions and lubricating oil emulsions."

Fifth Straight For Artistics

The Artistics won their fifth straight game in the Industrial Baseball League, at the Athletic Field, Wednesday evening, trimming the Socony team, 12-6. Pete Jordan increased his winning streak to four consecutive wins, pitching his usual effective game. He also contributed a two-base hit. The win gives the Artistics a better hold on first place.

Corregan, pitching for Socony, was hit freely, but he would have fared better if his teammates had given him better support.

The game was very close up to the fifth, neither team being able to get much of a lead. In this inning the Artistics came to bat with the score 5-4 against them and proceeded to win the game. Norton was given a free pass and Stauble singled over second base. Roosa misjudged Lewis's fly and it went for a triple. Norton and Stauble registered on the hit. Lewis scored on Jordan's drive over third base. The rally put the ball game in the bag for the Artistics.

The Oilmen were unable to get a hit off Jordan after the fourth inning. Norton and Knight saved Pete a couple of times with good catches. Weaver also helped him with a nice catch.

The Artistics tallied two in the sixth and three in the seventh.

SIDE-LINERS.

Jordan has walked but one man in his last three games. He got his usual bad start again.

Some of the players had their patent leather shoes on again last night. The rain had everybody guessing.

Hasbrouck showed the fans that he could run, by stealing second twice. He also had a good day at bat and in the field.

The Standard Oil are having a busy week. They play Uni-Slyke tonight.

Navy Rules a Slight Choice

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 24.—Washington and the Navy today were even stronger favorites for the championship race on Monday, as a result of rowing time trials within nine seconds of each other in the gathering gloom of last night. The Navy made the faster time, 19:12, and therefore was a slight choice over the Huskies, whose time was 19:21.

The Huskies' time would have served to make them odds-on choices for the race, if it hadn't been for the Navy's earlier effort.

The trials of the two great rivals furnished plenty of food for gossip around the boat houses today, the consensus being that Washington probably will have to come from behind if it hopes to beat the Navy.

Cornell, Syracuse and Columbia also staked themselves to four-mile trials, which were not timed except by their coaches. It was said that all failed to better twenty minutes.

Dad Vall, of Wisconsin, had his Badgers out for a five-mile haul, no attempt at speed being made.

California went to the opposite extreme by practicing racing starts, while Pennsylvania did little.

Tagging Major League Bases

A home run by Tolson, a pinch hitter, in the tenth enabled the Cubs to stop the Reds, 5 to 3. Pitcher Root of the Cubs hit Pitcher Luque of the Reds with a pitched ball in the fifth and Luque returned the compliment in the next inning, all of which resulted in a spirited argument between Luque and Manager McCarthy of the Cubs.

Pittsburgh failed to take advantage of their opportunity to regain first place by losing to the Cardinals, 6 to 2, when Hornsby hit a homer with the bases full. The Cards are now a game behind the Pirates and a game and a half behind the Reds.

The Robins climbed in the social swim of the first division by taking both games of a twin bill from the Braves, 3 to 1 and 6 to 4.

Petty and McWeeny pitched the beaners to death while their mates won each game with a ninth-inning rally.

The White Sox broke the triple tie for second place in the American League by defeating the Indians, 5 to 3. Chicago is now nine games behind the Yankees.

Walker Favored To Beat Dundee

In Bout Tonight at Madison Garden—Walker Not Giving Himself a Chance Says Walsh.

(By Davis J. Walsh.)

New York, June 24.—They have Mickey Walker ribbed for a smashing rejuvencence at Madison Square Garden tonight, so convincing in its fluency to detail as to lead him right back to the championship, just as though physical condition was a thing that one turns on and off like a beer tap. Alleged to be a physical debit when he lost the welterweight title to Pete Latzo in May, the ex-champion is being megaphoned to beat Joe Dundee so badly that another match with Latzo will be a formality. Perhaps the boys are right. If I seem to take issue on this point, it is only because it occurs to me that a man who wasn't "right" a month ago figures to be quite wrong tonight.

Once over-trained, as Walker was supposed to have been at Scranton, the business of reclaiming even adequate condition is a long and tedious one. Certainly the writer would think more highly of Walker's chances of reclaiming the title if he had not been rushed right back to the races.

A long rest, followed by light work leading up to active training would have made Walker a better title bet but in this way, he would have lost an immediate shot at the championship, which is to come in the August to the winner of tonight's fight, a ten-rounder.

If Walker was the man who dominated the welterweight situation two years ago, there would be slight argument. But he isn't.

Somewhat, the boy has slipped terribly since teaming up with Jack Kearns, it having been the latter's lack of lead on him at one and the same time. Walker is only twenty-five and has engaged in about seventy fights; therefore he should be as good as over, which is saying a lot in view of the fact that he was the greatest champion we owned in 1924.

Perhaps the Grah Smith killed him off or it may have been that his admiration for Kearns caused him to try to play another man's game. Whatever the answer, he had to go to the Canada Friedman fight early after the Salter Friedman fight early last winter and that "new look" which prompted the New York Times to favor him with an indefinite suspension, never has been satisfactorily explained.

His showing against Latzo, for whom he got down to 144 pounds without adequate reason, following his performances against the Sham and Friedman, led to the natural conclusion that he was gone. The chances are that he will never again knock the greatest welter and old claim in the old days and his headlong rush into the Dundee match should only serve to certify this idea.

Perhaps Walker will win tonight. The betting says he will although

Colonials Win Six Inning Game

From All-Schenectady Team Wednesday, Score 5 to 2—Small Crowd In Attendance—Baker and Smith Hurt.

It was a very tiny band that journeyed up to the Fair Grounds Wednesday evening and witnessed a match between the Colonials and the All-Schenectady team, a match which a very slight number of the fans thought would be played. But in spite of the rain and rather damp ball park the teams went at it and after six frames the match was called. At this point the Philomen had corralled 3 runs and the up-staters 2.

The Colonials crashed into the enemy pitcher, Bill Makofski, the lone pitcher for the rest of the contest. Bill is a brother of Sig Makofski the Union College whirlwind who did not make the trip with the up-staters. The Colonial's hitting machinery was good for one run the opening frame and two more the second and that finished their hostilities for the evening. The All-Schenectady crew roped in their two markers the fifth frame. Eddie Baker found his first opportunity to do any hitting for the Colonials this season and stayed with the visitors for three frames. Eddie had little to complain of during his three-inning jaunt but when the fourth came the up-staters were acting altogether too familiar with his borders. When in the fifth Eddie allowed an up-stater to walk aboard and two of his mates hit singles. Manager Phelps scented trouble brooding so the southpaw was relieved by Art Smith.

In the fifth frame the visitors collected their tally of the evening. Wolfe received a pass and after that son fled out. Marone singled to right field. Then Rousch hit into left field for a one-bagger. Wolfe scored the first run. Eddie Baker at this point was relieved by Art Smith. While Johnny Schermerhorn was seeking a connection a strike got past Melvin and Marone brought in the up-stater's second and final run. Schermerhorn walked and Coughlin fanned to end the frame.

The locals brought in the rest of their spoils in the second. O'Brien started by hitting safely. Peters hit at the pitcher who threw wild toward first and O'Brien went to third. Melvin fanned. Baker sacrificed to center field and O'Brien came home. Then Eddie Phelps clouted another single and Johnny Peters escorted the third run of the evening home.

In the fourth the Colonials with three men on and only one down had a perfect chance to score but failed. Phelps hit a fly over which this guardian captured and pegged home, catching O'Brien who was trying to score.

Both clubs hit 6 blows apiece.

CUNEO'S "BUCCANER" WINS RACE AT NORWICH

"Buccaner," a bay gelding by Peter Volo, owned by John J. Cuneo of this city, with Ackerman driving, won the two-year old trot, purse $1,000 at Norwich, Conn., on Tuesday, June 22, 1926.

The two-year old trot, the first race of the year for juvenile trotters, proved rather easy for the "Buccaner," owned by John J. Cuneo, of Kingston, N. Y., and a member of the Ackerman stable. Peter Volo, by Chommut Peter, owned by L. W. Kenny, of Lynfield, Mass. was a good second.

Wednesday, "Buccaner" directed another victory from the Cuneo stable, when he won the three-year old race at Norwich, finishing 6, 5 and 3 in the three heats. Admiral Gratton won on 2:03 1/2, 2:10 1/2, 2:10 1/2.

Buccaner, if he has one of his good nights, is a better capable of winning than Walker something to think about. Walker might even go on to beat Latzo within another six weeks. My only complaint is that he doesn't seem to be giving himself a real chance.

Standing of the Mercantile Teams

The B Team of the Kattagman & Mitchell Silk Mills lead the Mercantile Horse Shoe Pitching League with a total of twelve straight games. The team, which is composed of Charles Mains and Ralph DeGraff, have already won the championship of the league. Only two more games remain on their schedule and the losing of these will not affect their standing at all.

DeGraff of this team also leads the league in the number of ringers pitched in one game, his highest being eleven.

The Everett & Treadwell A Team are staging a grand rally and will probably take second place in the league.

EVANGELIST THINKS KINGSTON NEEDS HIM

Would Soothe Sin From Under His Gospel Tent.

Evangelist Robie, who travels about the country evangelizing under a tent and has been stirring up Bloomington and Hesendale, has made a canvass of Kingston clergymen with a view to settling up his tent somewhere in Kingston and saving the city from the wrath to come. Since the Peacock tabernacle performance several years ago Kingston has been free from this type of excitement. Evangelist Robie comes rather high, although not so high as Evangelist Peacock did, as he provides his own tent and there is some question as to whether Kingston churches will meet the financial demand. Evangelist Robie is a valiant foe of Satan, a vehement denouncer of sin, which he asserts, exists in most copious quantities and is rapidly growing greater and rearing its hydra head higher and higher, so that it must be smitten at once if utter ruin is to be averted.

Financial and Commercial

New York, June 24.—In spite of activities which represented chiefly efforts of professional traders to force a decline in prices the stock market rallied today, and numerous stocks regained most of yesterday's losses.

Outside of the strength of United States Steel, which sold in large volume around 129, the railroad stocks and the motors furnished the strong points. Willys Overland common on a heavy turnover reached 28.

National Discount continued its spectacular advance and reached a new high at 97 1/2. American Smelting led the coppers, with a 2 1/2 point advance to above 129, and various specialties rose a point or less. With the renewed weakness in the whole-sale gasoline market, there was little or nothing in oil company mergers to stimulate speculation in the oil stocks, though Shelly and Pan-American were active at the peak prices for the movement.

For the first time in many years, the people of Rosendale and vicinity are aroused to the things of greatest importance. The interest and enthusiasm in the revival meeting at the Rosendale Reformed Church is contagious, for large crowds are coming from every nearby place. There are seekers at every service. Tuesday night when the invitation was given, forty responded, with deep feeling, solemnity and sincerity, a wonderful sight. Wednesday night, again the Fleischmanns bus was engaged to convey a capacity load from Kingston to the service. After the regular service closed, before the bus left, the Kingston delegation held a prayer meeting in the bus which was very unique and impressive. An old villager said last night, "We hardly know Rosendale these days." Mr. Robt. Stiles theme to night will be "What Will You Give For Your Soul?" Friday night he preaches on the topic, "The Second Coming of Christ." Services every evening at 8 o'clock. Everyone welcome. No plea for money, no traps, no embarrassment for anyone. Sunday night closes the campaign. It is urged that all those interested make the most of the remaining services and attend them all, bringing others with them.

Getting Ready for Boy-Scout Camp

Almost every normal boy delights in camping. Opportunity is afforded not only to members of the Boy Scout organization of Kingston and Ulster county but to other boys as well to enjoy this privilege at Camp Mikanakawa, the Boy Scout Camp of Ulster county, located on the Wallkill river about two miles from New Paltz. The camp will open on Monday, July 12. There will be at least two periods of two weeks each. Boys may stay for one or both periods.

Camp Mikanakawa is said to be by those who have visited it in the past seasons a most ideal camp site. While it may take several seasons to assemble all desired equipment, yet the camp has been organized, quite an adequate supply. The camp this season will be under the personal supervision of County Scout Executive H. N. Smith. The athletic, including swimming, will be in charge of George V. Masterson, who has had several years' experience in boys' camps and in physical work. It is expected also that several Scoutmasters will attend at least part of the time. There will be plenty of food of the very best prepared by an experienced cook. Applications have begun to come in for the camp. If you are interested, call or drop a card for descriptive literature to Boy Scout Headquarters, 442 Broadway, Kingston, N. Y.

Leather Belts Have Long Life

Offer Advantages to Owner Who Will Care for Them—Will Last Longer a Lifetime. Ithaca, N. Y., June 24.—For the farmer who is willing to give his belt equipment good care, R. F. Jones of Cornell University here says that leather belts offer the best investment, provided the owner uses such a belt enough to realize on the long life which it offers him in return for his money.

Leather belts, he says, have the important advantage of being able to transmit more power for the same width of belt on the pulley than any other kind known. Likewise, they last almost indefinitely if they are given good care. Mr. Jones instances belts that have been in use for as long as fifty years, and says that good care will insure long life as that for almost any leather belt that a farmer is apt to use, as most of them will not give a belt the steady daily service required by industry. Mr. Jones advocates the use of leather belts for the short tractor drives used today because they transmit more power and because they are elastic enough to help absorb the shocks without having to run a long belt. With the old steam tractor, a long belt was needed to keep the engine away from buildings and strawstacks and so obviate the danger of fire. Among the advantages of the leather belt, Mr. Jones lists its lower final cost, the easier alignment possible, that fact that it can be run open instead of crossed, and that it is less likely to be affected by wind.

The only objection to the use of a leather belt instead of a fabric belt is the first cost, and that can largely be discounted if the belt is to be used much, on account of the long life of the leather. The leather belt can also be used at a much shorter center successfully, so that too helps cut the difference in outlay.

Kingston's Representative in Oratory Contest Delivers His Address—Winners of Rotary Prizes Guests at Luncheon. Victor Johnson, Kingston High School graduate who represented his school in the state finals in the oratory contest this year, was the speaker at the Rotary Club luncheon this week. Mr. Johnson delivered his address on "The Constitution" which carried him to the state finals and made a fine impression on the Rotarians. He is not of the noisy, athletic, tumultuous type of speaker, but has an effective delivery and his subject matter was almost faultlessly arranged and discussed in forceful, well chosen words.

Merion Phelps and Fred Clark, the high school students who won the Rotary prize for standing highest in scholarship, co-operation and willingness to serve, were also guests at the luncheon. There was one prize offered but the judges found it impossible to decide between the two young men and suggested splitting the prize. Instead of splitting, Rotary doubled the prize. Dr. Michael, in introducing the young men, said that the 1926 class was a most remarkable one and imbued with the spirit of service as was proved by the fact that $100 from the class funds had been given to the Kingston City Hospital and later another $100 had been given the income to constitute an annual prize to be awarded to the senior who did the most original work in English.

Bernard Morrison of the Framingham, Mass., Rotary Club and William Gould of the Albany Rotary Club were also guests. Mr. Morrison told of the work done in Framingham by organizing a boys' band which gives open air concerts and visits various institutions and Mr. Gould told of the work for crippled children done by the Albany Rotary Club which is very much like that done by the Kingston Rotary Club in a quiet way for several years past.

In the absence of President Hathaway, who had not yet returned from the Denver convention, Vice President Ernest R. Hicks presided.
